West Ministers Set Conditions For Berlin Deal

ISTANPUL, Turkey (AP)-In a city under martial law curfew, Western foreign ministers Sunday turned their attention to the problem of trying to find a stopgap agreement with the Communists that would take the heat out of the explosive Berlin situation.

Informed diplomats said the Western leaders, North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting, agreed on conditions for an interim agreement with the Soviet Union. They did not disclose details, but said any deal would have to leave the Allied position in divided Berlin intact at the end of any agreed period. In addition during the term of an agreement Western rights of access to the city would have to be maintained ironclad guarantees, they

At the same time, diplomats said, they endorsed a new summit plan for an all-German plebiscite to settle whether the German people want the Soviet method or the Western method of restoring Germany's unity.

With adequate life insurance, you and your family are fully protected...now...during an emergency...

at big expense time like college...and when you're set to take it easy. These are all advantages unique to life insurance.

Peace of mind at the stroke of a pen. You guarantee your family an amount of money far greater than you could possibly save in many years.

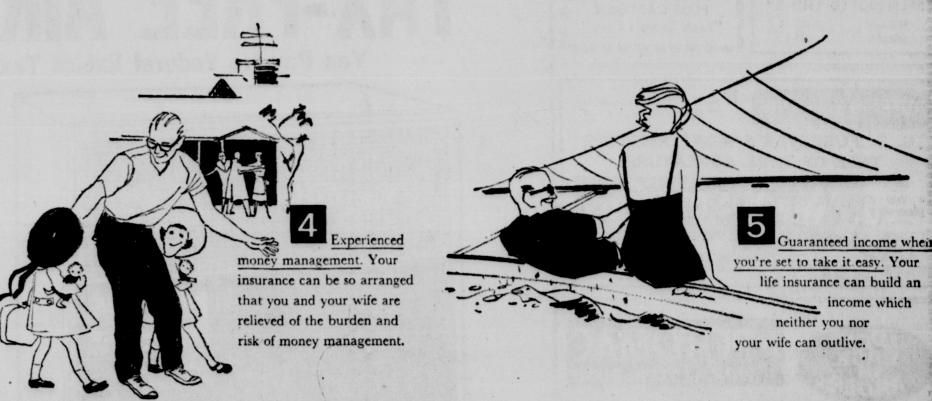

Guaranteed protection at any given time. You and your family know, in advance, exactly how much money will be available in an emergency.

Guaranteed benefits at big-expense time. You can make certain that specific expenses such as your children's education and your mortgage will be met.

· Life Insurance Is America's Most Widely Used Form Of Thrift

Life insurance, in addition to providing for family security, plays an important role in our national growth. Savings, through life insurance, help provide the funds for new schools, new factories and the new jobs a growing America needs. The money saved and used in this way also helps in the continuing fight against inflation.

Commonwealth's Embarrassments

The Commonwealth of Nations is sometimes referred to as the fourth British Empire. This is accurate enough if one stipulates that it is neither an empire nor truly a commonwealth but an association of sovereign independent states which have no legal obligation toward each other. The appellation British no longer is generally used; members are called countries rather

The major case in point, the major problem, at the May conference of Prime Ministers opening tomorrow in London is the Commonwealth status of the Union of South Africa. The racial policies of the South African government inevitably embarrass its Commonwealth partners. The British House of Commons in a carefully worded resolution of April 8 urged the London government to "take the opportunity . . . to bring home to the South African government the strong feelings of the British people on this

Even more embarrassed, to say the least, are colored nations of the Commonwealth. South Africa already has severed relations with India. Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, Prime Minister of Nigeria, on April 8 said that if his country were strong enough it would be prepared to fight South Africa. And Nigeria has been invited to London, though it becomes a full-fledged Commonwealth member only in October.

The Commonwealth shoe pinches South Africa in turn. Before the attempt on his life Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd had announced that within a year or two his country would decide - by a referendum of the white minority whether to become a republic. At the same time the government might choose to leave the Com-

It is perfectly free to do this, as the Commonwealth of Eire did in 1948. For that matter, at least half of the member governments are known to have considered formal demands that South Africa be ousted. But cooler and - depending on the point of view — perhaps wiser heads are likely to prevail. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of Canada on April 11 said that he feared for the future of the Commonwealth if its Prime Ministers "should become the judge and jury of the conduct of member nations.'

The Cuban Revolution

Herbert Matthews of "The New York Times" is an expert on Spain and Latin America and like most experts in all fields, he has fallen in love with the little microbes he sees through his glasses. His defense of Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba as a "social revolution" becomes meaningless in the face of the record as it unfolds. The denial of Communist implications does not hold up from any study of the facts.

Revolutions are made by men with ideas and purposes. Revolutions are never mass explosions. They are the product of careful planning, of the preparation of slogans and paraphernalia, of the readiness of the leaders to man their posts with immediacy. The Russian Revolution of 1917 was in the making for half a century and the Bolsheviks organized for it in 1903.

All modern revolutions have been social revolutions; Matthews's redundancy establishes no additional information. What is meant by the phrase "social revolution"? It means the dispossession of the possessing classes and the redistribution of both wealth and power to other classes.

A Communist revolution, whether in the stage of a people's republic which Cuba is now, or in the stage of a Socialist state which Russia is now, or in the attempt to establish a Communist state which Red China is now, is always a dictatorship, for its essential characteristic is the dictatorship of the proletariat and thus whoever controls the proletariat is the master of the

Among the social revolutions which have failed are those of Hitler, Mussolini and Peron. The only proved successful social revolutions have been those of Lenin in Soviet Russia and Tito in Yugoslavia. Without a revolution, Franklin D. Roosevelt effected vast social changes in the United States.

To repeat, revolutions are made by men and Fidel Castro collected a group of men from many countries, most of whom are either Communists or fellow

Cuba is practically without political parties except the Socialist Party which is Communistic. Fidel Castro does not belong to a political party but is representative of a people's movement. However, the cooperation of the Socialist Party is accepted. Communism is regarded not as political but as ideological. The official paper of the government, "Revolucion," is edited by Carlos Franqui who is a Communist.

The first characteristic of a Communist revolution is the sequestration of land without compensation. It is a fundamental of the Marxian doctrine that the land belongs to all the people and its produce to those who work it with their sweat and blood. To compensate landlords is to give profits to the capitalist class, thus acknowledging that they have some rights.

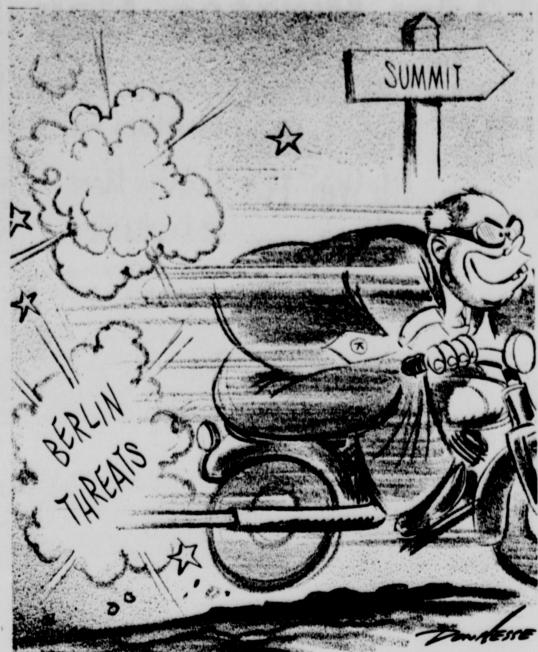

Before Mikovan came to Cuba, there was some discussion of giving the landlords a kind of bonds for their lands, houses and cattle. Now they get nothing, after the Russian Marxian pattern. The next step will undoubtedly be the establishment of state-owned industries by seizing all the sugar mills which will be nationalized. The mark of a Socialist Revolution anywhere, by definition, is the seizure by the government of the means of production, distribution and exchange. The next stage is the abolition of the family, of religion, of nationality and the establishment of the dictatorship of the

Every person in Cuba will sooner or later be working for the government and will be policed by Castro's militia. The development of such a militia (Trotzky's Red Army) can, in short order, hold any unarmed people in absolute thrall. Every revolution employs such a militia not to achieve social change but to keep in power those who have seized power. An example of such a militia was Hitler's Storm Troopers.

The apologists for Castro deal with his sweet and gentle personality. No one could have been more gentle than Lenin. I saw him often. He could not hurt a fly! What does that prove? In the name of revolution, he had many killed. Sun Yat-sen was almost feminine in his sweetness, but sent many revolutionists into war and death.

Two Important Commissioners backstage story of two impertant commissioners appointed by Eisenhower who are under Congressional scrutiny this week.

Most people consider ambassaders the most important appointments made by a President. Ambassadors are glamorous, but they don't hold a candle to the power of certain commissioners who can decide what American housewives pay for gas and electricity, or rule on what the nation listens to and sees on radio and television.

Today the House of Representatives takes a look at one of trese key commissioners, while the Senate is already considering the other. Here is their record:

1 William Connole of the Federal Power Commission took a firm stand to protect the gas rates of northern and eastern consumers. He ruled against Cities Service, Continental Oil, Atlantic, and Tidewater in the biggest natural gas rate test in history. Other commissioners overruled him but eventually his opinion was upheld by the Supreme Court.

Connole's stand for the consumers cost the big oil and gas companies five cents per thousand cubic feet which meant millions of dollars in profits.

Among the gas and oil executives who opposed his position was Leonard F. McCollum, president of Continental Oil, a guest at Ike's White House stag dinners and long-time Eisenhower

The Federal Trade Commission recently charged one major dance studio, having a Washington outlet, with conducting "false" and "deceptive" practices. It is estimated that about onequarter of the new business is

There is one extreme case in which a Washington woman, 80 years old, complained that her partner pestered her until she bought $2,500 worth of lessons

It was natural, therefore, for Mr. Eisenhower to utter a word of warning. It was a difficult and delicate subject to handle, internationally speaking, so the President decided to serve warning indirectly that he would not engage in a prolonged palaver at Paris. This is a maneuver in the conduct of foreign relations which the President ought to be able to make without the sabotaging tactics of partisans on Capitol

Surely the President of the United States ought to be free from petty sniping as he prepares for a "summit" conference on which hope for peace and disarmament is being based throughout the world. Surely there must be ample time between June and November of this year for the snipers and the smearers to carry on their partisan attacks against Mr. Nixon. Surely mere attendance for a couple days or even a week at the "summit" conference by Vice President Nixon, as he sits in for the President till Mr. Eisenhower can return to Paris or until the conference adjourns, is not something so catastrophic to the Democratic Party's hopes for victory in 1960 as to cause so many of its members in the House, as well as some in the Senate, to lose perspective.

Former President Truman, by his statement approving President Eisenhower's plan to substitute the Vice President at some Paris sessions, disassociated himself from the critics. It has also been suggested on Capitol Hill that Secretary Herter should have been designated to head the delegation in the President's absence. But those who made the suggestion don't know 'protocol." When heads of state meet, a foreign secretary cannot serve as a substitute. A Vice President of the United States is considered the No. 2 man, just as is a Vice Chairman of the Soviet Union.

Heart Symptoms: Which Side To Sleep On?

Now and then we hear the expression. "It is bad for your heart to sleep on the left side.' This is not true but all folklore has some basis in fact. Dr. Francis Clark Wood, of the University of Pennsylvania school of medicine, made a special study of this problem.

On one occasion he went to the bedside of a boy with serious cardiac disease. The teen-ager was sleeping, as he always did, on his right side. Dr. Wood turned him on his left side without awakening him. Within 20 seconds, the boy was back on his right side. He was turned again -and in 15 seconds, rolled back.

remained on his left side for a minute when suddenly he sat upright, breathing hard; then he lay down and fell asleep on his right side. The boy did not remember the incident on awaken-

Most of us are able to sleep on either side and we switch back and forth frequently during the night. Dr. Wood had his nurses make hourly checks on the sleeping positions of his patients, none of whom had heart diseases. They were found lying

This was in contrast to another group of 52 who always slept on one side. Some gave no reason, saying they could lie comfortably in any recumbent position. Others preferred the right side because of habit or because they could hear their heart beat when lying on the left. The remainder had to sleep on the right side because of necessity. Otherwise they developed shortness of breath, palpitation, chest pain, cough, dizziness, or weakness.

Dr. Wood is of the opinion that the body position might account for many of the night symptoms enocuntered by heart patients. Apparently, in these individuals, the large vessel through which blood returns to the heart is pressed upon when lying on the left side

Friend Of McCarthy

2. Commissioner Robert E. Lee, of the Federal Communications Commission rose to favor in the Eisenhower administration as a result of his close friendship with the late Senator McCarthy

Most of the Senators now called upon to pass on Lee's record don't know it, but Lee, no relation to the Civil War hero, is the man who came to McCarthy's rescue after Joe had made the amazing charge that there were '205 card-carrying Communists" in the State Department, and then found he couldn't prove it Lee was then minority clerk of the House Appropriation Committee and managed to get and give McCarthy a list of 81 security risk cases locked up in the files of his committee.

Senator Kennedy has recently charged that religion should not be injected into politics and he is right. However, an important religious leader. Father Walsh of Georgetown University, had first advised McCarthy to make the Communist charge against the State Department and Lee, a Catholic, supplied McCarthy with the list of 81 suspects which resulted in one of the most historic Washington battles of the postwar era

Most of the list of 81 which Lee supplied to McCarthy had already been fired by Secretary of State Acheson, and in the end, Scott McLeod, McCarthy's friend who became State Department security officer, testified under oath that McCarthy was never able to find one Communist in the State Department.

Later Lee plunged into the Maryland 1950 campaign to defeat Sen. Millard Tydings, who had challenged Joe's charges against the State Department. There ensued an election which a Senate committee under Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and Tom Hennings of Missouri found to be one of the dirtiest in years.

Mysterious Postcards

Lee was in the thick of it. His job, according to sworn testimony, was to pick up checks in Baltimore, deposit them in his wife's account in the National Capital Bank in Washington, and then pay the expenses of the anti-Tydings campaign. Among the checks deposited to Lee's wife's account were those of Alvin Bentley, grandson of a founder of General Motors, now Congressman from Michigan, for $5,000. Much of this money, according to Senate testimony, was used by Lee to finance the mailing of 300,000 postcards addressed by nuns in a Maryland convent, which read: "I shall be deeply grateful for your vote on Tuesday-John Marshall Butler.

Thus a large part of Maryland woke up two days before the election with what they thought was a personal hand-written card from the Republican candidate. They did not know that the cards had been addressed by nuns and paid for by money from Texas and Michigan.

It is clearly against Maryland law to handle funds in the name of a political candidate unless you register for such purpose. R E Lee not only escaped action but was rewarded by appointment to one of the most important commissions in the government. He was given the job of passing upon the TV and radio licenses and networks of the na-

After his appointment, Lee's record for political favoritism and of accepting entertainment was similar to that of Chairman Doerfer who has just been forced to resign. Lee, on the contrary, has just been reappointed.

It will be interesting to see what the Democrats, who are telling the public they can do a better job than Eisenhower, now do about these two commissioners-Connole, the champion of the consumer who was not reappointed; and Lee, the McCarthyite champion of the big politically minded TV-casters, who was reappointed.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

The high sun flattened the sea. The Yankee rose and fell in the swells like a lazy bula dancer. She had come out of Port St. Lucie for sailfish, but no pennant whipped from her outriggers. She would go home followed by mocking sea birds, begging for bait. The old boat trolled the edges of the indigo Gulfstream, the exhausts bubbling at five knots. She trailed four lines, with four silver fish breaking surface 300 feet behind. Billy Vessels dozed in the sun, one heavy hand on the rod. On the opposite side, I sat sipping a Coke, thinking of a big dark sailfish and thinking of Billy.

We are casual friends, Billy and I. We fish together when I go to Florida and this time I had looked over some lots at Port St. Lucie: something where a boat could be moored to the front lawn. Then we had boarded the Yankee and we talked baseball and football and anything but fish on the trip out.

We were five miles out row. Farther out, rain poured into the sea in a small gray curtain. A tanker with a bone in its teeth rode south, the hem of its plimsoll showing red. A big jet plane had come in over the sea and headed down toward Miami, and Billy had opened a half eye and said: "Boy, that's moving."

He is the only All-America football player I know. He is not very big, but he has Smithfield shoulders and a thick neck and a flat nose and jet hair, and there is a ripple of power in his back muscles. I never heard him tell anybody he was All-America, even when the barroom conversation got around to football.

Billy is 29 now and he could still be playing for the Baltimore Colts, but he quit because he wants to earn money with his head instead of his legs. He came out of Cleveland, Oklahoma not too long ago and he was such a fast - moving halfback in high school that he opened an athletic scholarship at Oklahoma University in 1949.

A student who gets a C isn't much. His English marks were worse. But he hit the line so hard and so fast that Bud Wilkinson, the coach, played him in the big team all through his sophomore year and Billy Vessels became an All-America back. The Okies were losing the Texas game 13-7 with one minute to go in the fourth quarter when Billy got the ball and ran it for a touchdown and Jim Weatherall kicked the extra point. Two years later. Vessels was not only All-America, but he also won the Victor Heisman trophy as the outstanding player in the country. I asked him about it and he grinned and shook his head. "They don't tell you how I fumbled in the Notre Dame game," he said, "and we lost 27-21." True. But Billy doesn't tell how he was selected by The Associated Press and United

Press and the Sporting News as the player of the year. He married the girl next door, Susanne Wilson, when he graduated. She's a pale redhead with intelligence. He tried working in Canada and he tried pro football and nothing he did seemed like happy work to him. One day he was at a game in Miami and he met Frank Mackle, who offered Billy a job with General Development, and Vessels has been there

He doesn't sell houses. Billy works in the Corporate Relations Department of a $123,000,000 corporation. Translated, he helps draw up financial reports. There is a girl named Jane Ellen, almost 5, and a boy named Chase, who is 2. Vessels bought a house in South Miami and claims to be so happy that he feels permanently offside.

I was thinking about Billy, and what happens to our football heroes, when Billy whispered, "Let him run." I looked. Out in back, a corrugated black fin was moving slowly across from right to left. "Let him run," he said again, and the sailfish hit my line and the reel began to spin and whine. The fish broke clean and shook at the hook, standing on his tail and I started to bring him in and the skipper yelled down: "Don't do it. He's fresh and green. Let him play." I let him play and the excitement built up and the fish sounded and whipsawed back and forth. He ran away. Then he charged the boat, and the skipper gunned the engines. After a while, he made his moves slower and he came to me reluctantly.

The mate brought him over the side and he was six feet 2 inches long and had eyes like spinning silver dollars. I looked at him and I looked at Billy and I thought what a long way we three had come to meet.

Louisville Event Set For Tuesday

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - A dozen or more ambitious sophoof the Kentucky Derby.

This final prep at one mile undoubtedly will determine the num-429 ber of aspirants for the gross jackpot of $150,000 or so in next Saturday's 86th Derby.

Such stars as Tompion, Vene-58 tian Way, Bally Ache and Victoria Park are the big names among the six or seven 3-yearso olds already regarded as sure

At least this many more could earn a Derby start with an ims pressive showing in the trial.

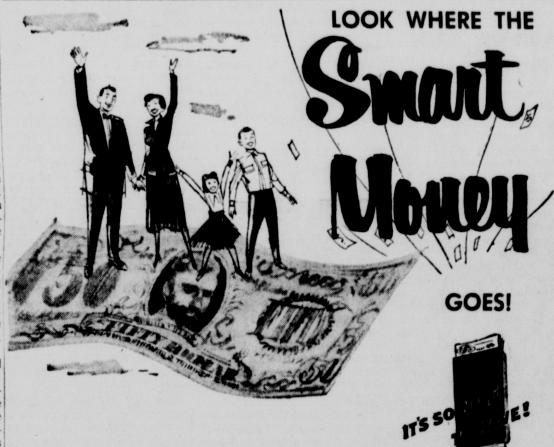

Calumet Farm is expected to 304 send Hillsborough and Pied d'Or in the trial and come back with one of them in the Derby. So far, Hillsborough, the son of 1949 Derby winner Ponder, has been the more impressive.

Also likely for the trial is the Llangollen Farm du of Command Pilot and Eagle Admiral.

Eagle Admiral, fourth in the 588 Florida Derby behind Bally Ache, Venetian Way and Victoria Park, 500 has a bad knee. If the chestnut .455 son of Khaled can't make it in the trial, he'll likely miss the

The remainder of the trial field, 400 when the entires are put in Monday morning, likely will include Bourbon Prince, Yomolka, Spring Broker, El Zag, Cuvier Relic, Fighting Hodge, Beau Purple, Effonlyi, and Orbit's Tip.

Presidential Hopefuls Take Off Kid Gloves

West Virginia Support Sought

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)-Democratic presidential hopefuls Sens. John Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey have taken off the kid gloves and turned the West Virginia primary into an all-out slug-

When the candidates aren't attacking one another they concentrate their fire on the Eisenhower administration and West Virginia's Republican governor Cecil H. Underwood.

Both candidates have placed the blame for the Mountain State's economic problems on Underwood and the administration in Washington.

Humphrey and Kennedy both say President Eisenhower has vetoed two principal bills that could have aided the state, the coal research bill and the area development act.

But when they are not concentrating their fire on the Republicans, the candidates and their aides toss barbs at each other. The Kennedy camp charged tics against Kennedy in the campaigning for the May 10 "popu- MRS. CHARLES E. COOK larity poll" primary.

> A .- Six spades. With this type of hand scientific. Under the circumstances, almost any holding partner will have to justify a jump to four will provide a rea-sonably good play for slam. Observe that after passing a jump to four spades is stronger than a jump to three.

Answer To Previous Puzzle

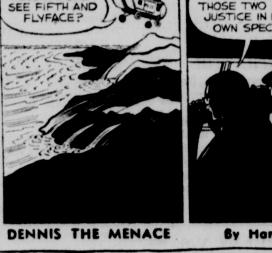

"We're a team, Figby! . . . and even if you've heard them before, an organization man laughs at the organization's jokes:"

"Think of the advantages, Alice. We could send Dennis out to play and MOVE before he got back!"

Earl C. Taylor, 32, Is Victim; Driver Detained In Jail

A 32-year-old local man who was employed as a stable hand at Laurel Race Track was killed early Saturday morning in a hitand-run automobile accident near the entrance to the stable area at the track

Earl Clinton Taylor was pronounced dead of a fractured skull and internal injuries by Dr. Gustave Faubert. Anne Arundel County deputy medical examiner. The victim was a son of Mrs.

Edith (Hollingsworth) Taylor, 331 Frederick Street, and the late Jacob Taylor.

State Police reported yesterday that Bobby Pettus, 22-year-old Laurel Race Track groom from Clover, S.C., has been charged with the death of Taylor.

Pettus was lodged in the Anne Arundel County Jail at Annapolis after being charged with hit-andrun driving and manslaughter by automobile

Sgt. Garland Walters of the State Police barracks at Waterloo credited Trooper F. A. De-Marino with tracking down the car which struck Taylor.

Walters said the trooper found a piece of metal, less than six inches long, at the accident scene A search for that type of car was

West Ministers Set Conditions For Berlin Deal

ISTANPUL, Turkey (AP)-In a city under martial law curfew. Western foreign ministers Sunday turned their attention to the problem of trying to find a stopgap agreement with the Communists that would take the heat out of the explosive Berlin situation.

Informed diplomats said the Western leaders, North Atlantic Treaty Organization meeting, agreed on conditions for an interim agreement with the Soviet Union. They did not disclose details, but said any deal would have to leave the Allied position in divided Berlin intact at the end of any agreed period. In addition during the term of an agreement Western rights of access to the city would have to be maintained by ironclad guarantees, they added.

At the same time, diplomats said, they endorsed a new summit plan for an all-German plebiscite to settle whether the German people want the Soviet method or the Western method of restoring Germany's unity.

How to plan ahead with much more confidence

With adequate life insurance, you and your family are fully protected...now...during an emergency...

at big expense time like college...and when you're set to take it easy. These are all advantages unique to life insurance.

Peace of mind at the stroke of a pen. You guarantee your family an amount of money far greater than you could possibly save in many years.

Guaranteed protection at any given time. You and your family know, in advance, exactly how much money will be available in an emergency.

Guaranteed benefits at big-expense time. You can make certain that specific expenses such as your children's education and your mortgage will be met.

Life Insurance Is America's Most Widely Used Form Of Thrift

Life insurance, in addition to providing for family security, plays an important role in our national growth. Savings, through life insurance, help provide the funds for new schools, new factories and the new jobs a growing America needs. The money saved and used in this way also helps in the continuing fight against inflation.

Commonwealth's Embarrassments

The Commonwealth of Nations is sometimes referred to as the fourth British Empire. This is accurate enough if one stipulates that it is neither an empire nor truly a commonwealth but an association of sovereign independent states which have no legal obligation toward each other. The appellation British no longer is generally used; members are called countries rather than dominions.

The major case in point, the major problem, at the May conference of Prime Ministers opening tomorrow in London is the Commonwealth status of the Union of South Africa. The racial policies of the South African government inevitably embarrass its Commonwealth partners. The British House of Commons in a carefully worded resolution of April 8 urged the London government to "take the opportunity . . . to bring home to the South African government the strong feelings of the British people on this

Even more embarrassed, to say the least, are colored nations of the Commonwealth. South Africa already has severed relations with India. Alhaji Sir Abubakar Tafawa Balewa, Prime Minister of Nigeria, on April 8 said that if his country were strong enough it would be prepared to fight South Africa. And Nigeria has been invited to London, though it becomes a full-fledged Commonwealth member only in October.

The Commonwealth shoe pinches South Africa in turn. Before the attempt on his life Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd had announced that within a year or two his country would decide — by a referendum of the white minority whether to become a republic. At the same time the government might choose to leave the Com-

It is perfectly free to do this, as the Commonwealth of Eire did in 1948. For that matter, at least half of the member governments are known to have considered formal demands that South Africa be ousted. But cooler and - depending on the point of view — perhaps wiser heads are likely to prevail. Prime Minister John Diefenbaker of Canada on April 11 said that he feared for the future of the Commonwealth if its Prime Ministers "should become the judge and jury of the conduct of member nations.'

The Cuban Revolution

Herbert Matthews of "The New York Times" is an expert on Spain and Latin America and like most experts in all fields, he has fallen in love with the little microbes he sees through his glasses. His defense of Fidel Castro's regime in Cuba as a "social revolution" becomes meaningless in the face of the record as it unfolds. The denial of Communist implications does not hold up from any study of the facts.

Revolutions are made by men with ideas and purposes. Revolutions are never mass explosions. They are the product of careful planning, of the preparation of slogans and paraphernalia, of the readiness of the leaders to man their posts with immediacy. The Russian Revolution of 1917 was in the making for half a century and the Bolsheviks organized for it in 1903.

All modern revolutions have been social revolutions; Matthews's redundancy establishes no additional information. What is meant by the phrase "social revolution"? It means the dispossession of the possessing classes and the redistribution of both wealth and power to other classes.

A Communist revolution, whether in the stage of a people's republic which Cuba is now, or in the stage of a Socialist state which Russia is now, or in the attempt to establish a Communist state which Red China is now, is always a dictatorship, for its essential characteristic is the dictatorship of the proletariat and thus whoever controls the proletariat is the master of the

Among the social revolutions which have failed are those of Hitler, Mussolini and Peron. The only proved successful social revolutions have been those of Lenin in Soviet Russia and Tito in Yugoslavia. Without a revolution, Franklin D. Roosevelt effected vast social changes in the United States.

To repeat, revolutions are made by men and Fidel Castro collected a group of men from many countries, most of whom are either Communists or fellow

Cuba is practically without political parties except the Socialist Party which is Communistic. Fidel Castro does not belong to a political party but is representative of a people's movement. However, the cooperation of the Socialist Party is accepted. Communism is regarded not as political but as ideological. The official paper of the government, "Revolucion," is edited by Carlos Franqui who is a Communist. The first characteristic of a Communist revolution is the sequestration of land without compensation. It is a fundamental of the Marxian doctrine that the land belongs to all the people and its produce to those who work it with their sweat and blood. To compensate landlords is to give profits to the capitalist class, thus acknowledging that they have some rights.

Before Mikoyan came to Cuba, there was some discussion of giving the landlords a kind of bonds for their lands, houses and cattle. Now they get nothing, after the Russian Marxian pattern. The next step will undoubtedly be the establishment of state-owned industries by seizing all the sugar mills which will be nationalized. The mark of a Socialist Revolution anywhere, by definition, is the seizure by the government of the means of production, distribution and exchange. The next stage is the abolition of the family, of religion, of nationality and the establishment of the dictatorship of the

Every person in Cuba will sooner or later be working for the government and will be policed by Castro's militia. The development of such a militia (Trotzky's Red Army) can, in short order, hold any unarmed people in absolute thrall. Every revolution employs such a militia not to achieve social change but to keep in power those who have seized power. An example of such a militia was Hitler's Storm Troopers.

The apologists for Castro deal with his sweet and gentle personality. No one could have been more gentle than Lenin. I saw him often. He could not hurt a fly! What does that prove? In the name of revolution, he had many killed. Sun Yat-sen was almost feminine in his sweetness, but sent many revolutionists into war and death.

Ike Acts Differently On Jobs Of Two Important Commissioners

WASHINGTON - Here is the backstage story of two important commissioners appointed by Eisenhower who are under Congressional scrutiny this week.

Most people consider ambassa ders the most important appointments made by a President. Ambassadors are glamorous, but they don't hold a candle to the power of certain commissioners who can decide what American housewives pay for gas and electricity, or rule on what the nation listens to and sees on radio and television.

Today the House of Representatives takes a look at one of trese key commissioners, while the Senate is already considering the other. Here is their record:

1. William Connole of the Federal Power Commission took a firm stand to protect the gas rates of northern and eastern consumers. He ruled against Cities Service, Continental Oil, Atlantic, and Tidewater in the biggest natural gas rate test in history Other commissioners overruled him but eventually his opinion was upheld by the Supreme Court.

Connole's stand for the consumers cost the big oil and gas companies five cents per thousand cubic feet which meant millions of dollars in profits.

Among the gas and oil executives who opposed his position was Leonard F. McCollum, president of Continental Oil, a guest at Ike's White House stag dinners and long-time Eisenhower

The mayors of many consumer cities and the public utility commissions of six states have urged Connole's reappoint ment as the one single friend of the consumer on the FPC. All other commissioners voted with the gas-oil companies. Eisenhower is satisfied with them, but not with Connole, the opponent of

2. Commissioner Robert E Lee, of the Federal Communications Commission rose to favor in the Eisenhower administration as a result of his close friendship with the late Senator McCarthy.

Most of the Senators now called upon to pass on Lee's record don't know it, but Lee, no relation to the Civil War hero, is the man who came to McCarthy's rescue after Joe had made the amazing charge that there were '205 card-carrying Communists' in the State Department, and then found he couldn't prove it. Lee was then minority clerk of the House Appropriation Committee and managed to get and give McCarthy a list of 81 security risk cases locked up in the files of his committee. It was natural, therefore, for

Senator Kennedy has recently charged that religion should not be injected into politics and he is right. However, an important religious leader, Father Walsh of Georgetown University, had first advised McCarthy to make the Communist charge against the State Department and Lee, a Catholic, supplied McCarthy with the list of 81 suspects which resulted in one of the most historic Washington battles of the postwar'era. Most of the list of 81 which Lee supplied to McCarthy had already been fired by Secretary of State Acheson, and in the end, Scott find one Communist in the State Department.

Later Lee plunged into the Maryland 1950 campaign to defeat Sen. Millard Tydings, who had challenged Joe's charges against the State Department. There ensued an election which a Senate committee under Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and Tom Hennings of Missouri found to be one of the dirtiest in years.

Mysterious Postcards

Lee was in the thick of it. His job, according to sworn testimony, was to pick up checks in Baltimore, deposit them in his wife's account in the National Capital Bank in Washington, and then pay the expenses of the anti-Tydings campaign.

Among the checks deposited to Lee's wife's account were those of Alvin Bentley, grandson of a founder of General Motors, now Congressman from Michigan, for $5,000. Much of this money, according to Senate testimony, was used by Lee to finance the mailing of 300,000 postcards addressed by nuns in a Maryland convent, which read: "I shall be deeply grateful for your vote on Tuesday-John Marshall Butler.

Thus a large part of Maryland woke up two days before the election with what they thought was a personal hand-written card from the Republican candidate. They did not know that the cards had been addressed by nuns and paid for by money from Texas and Michigan.

It is clearly against Maryland law to handle funds in the name of a political candidate unless you register for such purpose. R. E. Lee not only escaped action but was rewarded by appointment to one of the most important commissions in the government. He was given the job of passing upon the TV and radio licenses and networks of the na-

After his appointment, Lee's record for political favoritism and of accepting entertainment was similar to that of Chairman Doerfer who has just been forced to resign. Lee, on the contrary, has just been reappointed.

It will be interesting to see what the Democrats, who are telling the public they can do a better job than Eisenhower, now do about these two commissioners-Connole, the champion of the consumer who was not reappointed; and Lee, the McCarthyite champion of the big politically minded TV-casters, who was re-

Surely mere attendance for a couple days or even a week at the "summit" conference by Vice President Nixon, as he sits in for the President till Mr. Eisenhower can return to Paris or until the conference adjourns, is not something so catastrophic to the Democratic Party's hopes for victory in 1960 as to cause so many of its members in the Former President Truman, by his statement approving President Eisenhower's plan to substitute the Vice President at some Paris sessions, disassociated himself from the critics. It has also been suggested on Capitol Hill that Secretary Herter should have been designated to head the delegation in the President's absence. But those who made the suggestion don't know "protocol." When heads of state meet, a foreign secretary cannot serve as a substitute. The high sun flattened the sea. The Yankee rose and fell in the swells like a lazy hula dancer, She had come out of Port St. Lucie for sailfish, but no pennant whipped from her outriggers. She would go home followed by mocking sea birds, begging for bait. The old boat trolled the edges of the indigo Gulfstream, the exhausts bubbling at five knots. She trailed four lines, with four silver fish breaking surface 300 feet behind. Billy Vessels dozed in the sun, one heavy hand on the rod. On the opposite side, I sat sipping a Coke, thinking of a big dark sailfish and thinking of Billy.

We are casual friends, Billy and I. We fish together when I go to Florida and this time I had looked over some lots at Port St. Lucie: something where a boat could be moored to the front lawn. Then we had boarded the Yankee and we talked baseball and football and anything but fish on the trip out. We were five miles out now.

Farther out, rain poured into the sea in a small gray curtain. A tanker with a bone in its teeth rode south, the hem of its plimsoll showing red. A big jet plane had come in over the sea and headed down toward Miami, and Billy had opened a half eye and said: "Boy, that's moving."

He is the only All-America football player I know. He is not very big, but he has Smithfield shoulders and a thick neck and a flat nose and jet hair, and there is a ripple of power in his back muscles. I never heard him tell anybody he was All-America, even when the barroom conversation got around to football.

Billy is 29 now and he could still be playing for the Baltimore Colts, but he quit because he wants to earn money with his head instead of his legs. He came out of Cleveland, Oklahoma not too long ago and he was such a fast - moving halfback in high school that he opened an athletic scholarship at Oklahoma University in 1949.

A student who gets a C isn't much. His English marks were worse. But he hit the line so hard and so fast that Bud Wilkinson, the coach, played him in the big team all through his sophomore generation of the eye tissues is year and Billy Vessels became an All-America back. The Okies were losing the Texas game 13-7 with one minute to go in the fourth quarter when Billy got the ball and ran it for a touchdown and Jim Weatherall kicked the extra point. Two years later, Vessels was not only All-America, but he also won the Victor Heisman trophy as the outstanding player in the Press and the Sporting News as the player of the year. He married the girl next door,

Susanne Wilson, when he graduated. She's a pale redhead with intelligence. He tried working in Canada and he tried pro football and nothing he did seemed like happy work to him. One day he was at a game in Miami and he met Frank Mackle, who offered Billy a job with General Development, and Vessels has been there ever since. He doesn't sell houses. Billy works in the Corporate Relations Department of a $123,000,000 corporation. Translated, he helps draw up financial reports. There is a girl named Jane Ellen, almost 5, and a boy named Chase, who is 2. Vessels bought a house in South Miami and claims to be so happy that he feels permanently offside

I was thinking about Billy, and what happens to our football heroes, when Billy whispered, "Let him run." I looked. Out in back, a corrugated black fin was moving slowly across from right to left. "Let him run," he said again, and the sailfish hit my line and the reel began to spin and whine. The fish broke clean and shook at the hook, standing on his tail and I started to bring him in and the skipper yelled down: "Don't do it. He's fresh and green. Let him play.

I let him play and the excitement built up and the fish sounded and whipsawed back and forth. He ran away. Then he charged the boat, and the skipper gunned the engines. After a while, he made his moves slower and he came to me reluctantly.

The mate brought him over the side and he was six feet 2 inches long and had eyes like spinning silver dollars. I looked at him and I looked at Billy and I thought what a long way we three had come to meet.

Louisville Event Set For Tuesday

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - A dozen or more ambitious sopho-Pct mores figure to start Tuesday in the Derby Trial, last proving 474 ground for the roses and riches of the Kentucky Derby

This final prep at one mile undoubtedly will determine the number of aspirants for the gross jackpot of $150,000 or so in next Saturday's 86th Derby Such stars as Tompion, Venetian Way, Bally Ache and Victoria Park are the big names among the six or seven 3-yearolds already regarded as sure At least this many more could earn a Derby start with an impressive showing in the trial.

Calumet Farm is expected to send Hillsborough and Pied d'Or in the trial and come back with one of them in the Derby. So far, Hillsborough, the son of 1949 Derby winner Ponder, has been the more impressive.

Also likely for the trial is the Llangollen Farm du of Command Pilot and Eagle Admiral.

Eagle Admiral, fourth in the Florida Derby behind Bally Ache, 500 Venetian Way and Victoria Park, 500 has a bad knee. If the chestnut .455 son of Khaled can't make it in the trial, he'll likely miss the .429 Derby

The remainder of the trial field, 400 when the entires are put in Monday morning, likely will include 364 Bourbon Prince, Yomolka, Spring Broker, El Zag, Cuvier Relic, Fighting Hodge, Beau Purple, Effonlyi, and Orbit's Tip. Spring Broker, carrying the

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR IS LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

What do you bid now?

A.—There is, of course, no question that there is a game in the hand, but the problem is to find the best spot. The rebid of spades is not recommended because partner may get the impression that you have a good suit and may raise with only two trumps. The suggested call is three diamonds. This is done not with any idea of being fancy. It will permit partner to go to three no trump if he had a good heart stopper. If he prefers spades, you will go to game in prefers spades, you will go to game in that suit, and if he bids four clubs, you will take him to five.
